

Personal Biography of Jill Scriven

Jill moved to Saskatchewan from Alberta in 2007 and swears she is never leaving! She brings many years of experience working for provincial government and specifically Tourism, Parks, Recreation and Culture. Her husband Stew was transferred to Regina with his job at Canada Post and they decided the Regina Beach area was where they wanted to live. They bought an acreage just outside of town.

Jill is the mother of three grown children and the grandmother to two beautiful granddaughters. Her two sons live in Edmonton and her daughter lives in Regina. Jill enjoys camping, birdwatching, watercolor painting and living the quiet life in the country. She is also a huge Nascar fan – and yes – her husband really did win that trophy racing!

Jill enjoys her job with the SSA and has learned a great deal about the recreation of snowmobiling in Saskatchewan.
