

Personal Biography of
Ron Hughes

Ron Hughes and his wife Tracy and their two children Christina and Justin live in Kelvington Sask.

Ron Hughes grew up in Sherwood Park Ab. He and parents travelled to the family farm at Hendon SK every year for Christmas. This is where his love of snowmobiling was born. As he got older he began to come out to Saskatchewan whenever he could to ride in the Kelvington and Greenwater areas. Ron spent his winters snowmobiling and his summers golfing in Kelvington, so when an opportunity to work in Kelvington came up he took it.

In 1996 Ron moved to Kelvington and worked as a driver for Kelvington Transport for 7 years. During that time, the only thing that could get him off the road was a snowmobile rally or a golf tournament. (Well, he came home once to get married) Ron sold his truck in 2003 and immediately became involved with the Kelvington Trailblazers. The club had just added another 200km loop to their trail system and needed another groomer operator. Since they could not find anybody good, they asked Ron.

In 2004 Les Erixon, Jason Welder and Ron Hughes won the Diamonds in The Snow Volunteer Grooming team of the year.

In 2006 Ron Hughes became the President of the Kelvington Trailblazers. He is active in all aspects of the club and loves every minute of time that he is able to volunteer. He was told by outgoing President Ted Comfort that "you can't quit a volunteer job until you find someone to replace yourself with" so Ron will probably be President forever.

In the summer of 2008 Ron was elected to the Board of Executives for the SSA is looking forward to moving snowmobiling in Saskatchewan forward.

Ron currently earns his money for snowmobiling working for as Territory Manager for Atom Jet Industries and Pattison Liquid Systems.
